RE: Memo #18-141 - Text Amendments

On March 13, 2018 the City Commission adopted Resolution 2018-99, accepting a study entitled "Pompano Beach, Florida: Principles to Guide Zoning for Community Residences for People with Disabilities" dated February 2018, (hereinafter, "the Study"). The study was prepared by a planning and law expert on zoning for community residences since 1974 who has written model zoning guidelines for community residences on behalf of the American Planning Association and American Bar Association, provided consulting services on zoning for community residences to dozens of communities, and served as an expert witness for the Department of Housing and Urban Development ("HUD"). The full study was reviewed by the Planning & Zoning Board at the February meeting and is available in full at the following link:

<http://pompanobeachfl.gov/grouphomes>

A review of the locations of community residences in the City of Pompano Beach found there is existing clustering of community residences on blocks and/or concentrations in neighborhoods that have created or are creating de facto social service districts in the City. This clustering interferes with the ability of community residences for people with disabilities to achieve their core goals of normalization and community integration of their residents.

The proposed ordinance comprehensively revamps the city's zoning treatment of these land uses in accord with sound zoning and planning principles, the nation's Fair Housing Act, and applicable Florida State Statutes. A recommendation of approval at the Planning & Zoning Board shall constitute zoning in progress.

Key features of the zoning scheme include the following:

- New use entitled "family community residence" for four to ten people with disabilities. This is listed as a permitted use in all residential districts and all other zoning districts where residential uses are allowed, subject to a rationally-based spacing distance of a typical block of 660 linear feet from an existing community residence or recovery community, and a licensing or certification requirement for the operator or the home itself. When a family community residence is proposed to be located within 660 feet of an existing community residence or recovery community or when there is no licensing or certification available for it, it needs the heightened scrutiny of a Special Exception approval.

- New use entitled "transitional community residences" for four to ten people. This is listed as a permitted use in all multi-family residential districts and all other zoning districts where multi-family residential uses are allowed, subject to a rationally-based spacing distance of a typical block of 660 linear feet from an existing community residence or recovery community and a licensing or certification requirement for the operator or the home itself. When a family community residence is proposed to be located in a single-family district, within 660 feet of an existing community residence or recovery community, or when there is no licensing or certification available for it, it needs the heightened scrutiny of a Special Exception approval.
- New use entitled "recovery community" that consists of two or more dwelling units in a multi-family structure. This is listed as a permitted use in all multi-family residential districts and all other zoning districts where multi-family residential uses are allowed, subject to a longer spacing distance of 1,200 linear feet and a licensing or certification requirement for the operator or the home itself. When a recovery community is proposed to be located in a within 1,200 feet of an existing community residence or recovery community, or when there is no licensing or certification available for it, it needs the heightened scrutiny of a Special Exception approval.
- All three new uses include a licensing or certification requirement for the operator or the home itself, and all existing operators must be brought into compliance with the certificate requirement by March 1, 2019. If licensing or certification is not offered by the State, the applicant must apply for Special Exception approval. Any recovery community that has been denied state licensing or certification required by this ordinance must cease operations.
- The ordinance establishes off-street parking requirements for community residences and recovery residences that are narrowly tailored to the actual need of the different types of community residences based on the population served.
- To implement this Code, an application that the City of Pompano Beach designates must be completed in full and submitted to the Director of Development Services prior to occupancy or construction of the proposed community residence to determine whether the proposed community residence is a permitted use or requires a special exception, to determine the maximum number of occupants allowed under city code, provisions that apply to all residential uses, and to identify whether any further accommodation is needed in accord with Section 155.2432 Reasonable Accommodation of this Code.

To facilitate an understanding of the ordinance, an enclosed FAQs seek to answer questions one might have regarding the extensive and complex amendments proposed for Pompano Beach's Land Usage Code to zone for community residences for people with disabilities, which include recovery residences, and for recovery communities. A positive recommendation of approval from the Planning & Zoning Board on these text amendments will begin zoning in progress. The amendments will go on the next available City Commission meeting for formal adoption.
