Horacio Danovich, CIP & Innovation District Director, recognized the many people, staff members and members of the public who served on numerous review panels. However, there were a few special people who merited special praise for their help in the last several months assisting him to put all these agenda items together. He thanked Jill Mesojedec, City Attorney's Office, Jeff English, Tammy Thompkins, and Jill Press, Purchasing Department, Antonio Pucci, Contract Management, Kervin Alfred, City Clerk's Office, and Dominique Mitchell, his assistant who all worked tirelessly these extra months in getting it all together, which was quite challenging. He said they spent a great deal of time running against the clock, assembling and preparing ordinances, contracts, solicitations and backup material.

Mr. Danovich indicated that regarding items 4 and 10, he will clarify to ensure there is no confusion pertaining to solicitations as far as the purchasing department that usually assembles the results of the review process and prepares an agenda item for Commission's approval of the rankings. Those items were scheduled for a previous agenda, but he had requested to place them on this agenda so they could be approved back to back. In addition, the design built contracts for the three fire stations are incomplete, because of the complexities, however, the City Attorney's Office is assisting in getting those completed and they will be ready for the second reading. Therefore, he requested the City Commission's latitude on these items in order to continue moving forward with the timelines.

Mr. Danovich stated he has a brief presentation that will provide information on how the City arrived at this current position. Please see Exhibit I attached.

Mr. Danovich indicated that upon the anticipated completion of the approval process, the next step will be on March 26, 2019, for the second reading thereafter, a public outreach will take place. He noted that each design team already has an agenda of each project, to include the dates, location, when they are going to happen, and a copy of that proposed agenda, see Exhibit II attached. This will be posted throughout several City locations to have an outreach and get everybody involved in the process to ensure full participation, and provide meaningful feedback. He indicated that Sample Images (see Exhibit I) are conceptual images in nature to provide a visual of what some of the projects would look like.
