Summary Explanation/Background:

The owners of the Festival Flea Market property are requesting the abandonment of the Pompano Industrial Park (PIP) Development of Regional Impact (DRI). The Festival Flea Market is within the boundary of this circa 1981 DRI Development Order. The last extension of the buildout date for the PIP DRI expired on December 29, 2005 and the City has been governing the property under the City’s land use map and zoning regulations since at least that time. The 2011 amendments to Chapter 380.06, the DRI statute, specifically 380.06(11)(b) provides a process by which expired DRI Development Orders can be abandoned. This abandonment is being conducted in accordance with that process. Since the City has not been using the DRI Development Order to administer the properties within the PIP DRI in relation to entitlements or development regulations for the past 15 years, the abandonment will have no effect on how the City reviews future development proposals within this area.
